been secured in the new Odd-fellows' Temple. After completing organization the club was addressed by Hon. J. T. Johnston, ex-Congressman from the Eighth district. The club is intended to be a permanent organization, and its rooms will be kept open as all times and its tables supplied with political and other reading matter for the instruction of its members.

Hon. J. M. Butler at Russiaville.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RUSSIAVILLE, Oct. 22.-By far the largest political meeting held in this part of the county was held at New London, two miles north of this place, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was addressed by Hon. John M. Butler, of Indianapolis. The speech was devoted to pensions, the silver question and the tariff, and was the best, clearest and most prolific of undisputable facts of any speech of the campaign in this county. Farmers were shown the advantages of the McKinley law as pertaining to their interests: in fact, the entire ground-work of Republicanism was held up and fully explained to the people in words very clear and forcible. A male quartet from Koko-mo enlivened the occasion with some inspiring songs.

John R. Lynch at New Albany.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW ALBANY, Oct. 22.-John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, addressed the colored voters and Republicans at Lincoln League Hall, to-night. There were nearly three hundred present, in spite of the steady downpour of rain, and those who heard him were well paid for their trouble. The speaker dwelt particularly upon the acts of the Republican Congress, and held that more real benefit would be derived from its legislation than by anything that has been done since the war. In regard to the new election law, Mr. Lynch advised the colored voters to stamp only the square at the top of the Republican ticket, and not to attempt to vote a mixed ticket.

Meetings in Shelby County. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

SHELBYVILLE, Oct. 22.-Hon. D. L. Wilson and Dr. Van Doris are holding meetings in this county this week and are having large crowds wherever they speak. Last night a large meeting was held at Lewis Creek, and to-night a big crowd ans of Shelby county are thoroughly aroused and expect to poll not only a full vote but make some gains.

Rally at Sheridan.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SHERIDAN, Oct. 22.—George Shirts and Hon. Robert Graham addressed a large and enthusiastic Republican meeting at the opera-bouse last night. The Republicans of Hamilton county are making a bold and aggressive campaign, while the Democrats are on the still hunt. Good results from Hamilton can be counted for on Nov. 4.

Voorhees Has 338 Hearers.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Daniel W. Voorhees spoke this afternoon to a crowd at the court-house, numbering 338 by actual count. His remarks were very abusive of Republicans, and he did not create as much enthusiasm as he usually does when he visits this city. Gen. M. D. Manson and Green Smith spoke to-night to a small crowd.

Democratic Fizzle at Salem.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SALEM, Oct. 22.—The grand Democratic rally announced for this place was a failure. One hundred and fifty men and boys listened to Hon. Joseph E. McDonald. lason Brown followed. The night meeting was abandoned. Democracy is blue in Washington county.

Meeting at Liberty.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LIBERTY, Ind., Oct. 22.-State Sepator Thomas T. Boyd, Hon. M. R. Sulzer and Park Daniels addressed an enthusiastic Republican meeting here to-night. Their speeches aroused great enthusiasm.

REED AT BURLINGTON.

The Speaker Makes Another Strong Appeal in Behalf of Majority Rule.

BURLINGTON, Ia., Oct. 22.—Speaker Reed arrived in this city from Peoria, Ill., at noon to-day, having made a speech at Galesburg in the morning. Ex-Senator Harlan introduced Mr. Reed at this place. After thanking the people for the warm reception accorded him he asked where could there be found a higher average level of intelligence outside of the United States than was presented before him. He had seen thousands of just such audiences in America. Fifty years ago the intelligence was not so great. Contact with each other in commercial and political channels had built up this present unrivaled intellectual commonwealth. We have become intelligent enough to recognize and admit the right of the majority to rule. There is a great wrong being done in this country to-day; eight millions of people with their representatives, were deprived of their rights, and these rights given to the Southern leaders. Twenty-six seats in Congress were occupied last term by men who had no more right to them than they had a right to seats in the British Parliament. A great cry was set up over the Lodge bill depriving people of their rights. It did deprive them of the right to steal ballot-boxes, disfranchise negroes and doctor returns. The Nation had a right to know about these methods in the South. The Democrats are sensitive about bayonets. Can it be that recollection of the past has anything to do with their feelings on this subject? [Laughter.]

After explaining the Lodge bill, Mr. Reed turned to the tariff bill, explaining the changes and benefits it proposed, and ridiculing the Democratic cry of rising prices. He closed with a tribute to Congressman

Mr. Reed again addressed the people here n the opera-house, which was crowded He dwelt on the last session of Congress and the Democratic obstruction methods. Among further reforms advocated was one of the abolition of the custom of adjourning upon the death of a member of Congress. Mr. Reed speaks in Waterloo to-

GATHERINGS ELSEWHERE,

Congressman Cannon Addresses Two Large Meetings at Kansas and Brocton. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

Paris, Ill., Oct. 22.—Congressman J. G. Cannon spoke at Kansas, in this county, at 2:30 this afternoon, and at Brocton at 7 o'clock this evening. At Kansas the large hall could not accommodate one-fourth of the people that came to hear him. The farmers came in large delegations. Mr. Cannon spoke for two hours. After referring to the tariff bill he quoted from the national platform of 1888, and demonstrated that the Republican party has kept the promises made before the election.

Hill and McKinley Meet.

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 22.—Governor Hil left Canton for Wooster this morning, arriving at the latter place at noon. At Massillon Major McKinley, who was on his way to Smithville, boarded the train, and John G. Warwick, McKinley's Democratic opponent in this congressional district, who was sitting in company with the Gov-ernor, arose and surrendered his seat to the Major, who chatted with the Governor | dor is practically supreme," he said. SUMMONSES WITHDRAWN.

The Prosecution in the Tipperary Cases Makes a New Move-Mr. Sheehy Sent to Prison. TIPPERARY, Oct. 22.-The police summonses issued against Mr. Harrison, member of the House of Commons for the Middle division of Tipperary, and other persons, on charges growing out of the disturbances that occurred at the court-house here at the opening of the conspiracy cases, have been withdrawn. Upon being notified of the withdrawal of the summonses Mr. V. B. Dillon, counsel for Mr. Harrison and the others against whom the summonses had been issued, wrote a let-ter to Mr. George Bolton, of counsel for the prosecution, in which he said: "I accept this as an admission on the part of Mr. Bal-four of the truth of my contention that after his Newcastle speech it would be impossible to secure even the semblance of a fair trial for the accused. Concerning the intimation contained in your letter notifying me of the withdrawal of the summonses, that other proceedings will be taken against my clients by the government, I would say that I shall take care that other proceedings are instituted forthwith to have the conduct of the police on the occasion in question constitutionally investigated." Mr. David Sheehy, member of the House of Commens for South Galway, who is one of the defendants on trial here on the charge of conspiracy, and who was yesterday adjudged guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to one week's imprisonment was taken to-day under a strong escort from this place to the Clonmel jail, where he will serve his sentence.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Irish National Land League Becoming Hard Pressed for Money.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. London, Oct. 22.—Letters and telegrams from Dublin published in London papers represent the Irish National League as more closely pressed for money than had been suspected. The special collections taken in the churches will not more than defray the ordinary expenses of the league. It is asserted by Timothy Harrington and other prominent leaguers that the increased activity of the landlords at this juncture is in pursuance of a concerted plan to embarrass the league at a time when it is believed to be straitened for funds by throwing upon it for support a much larger number of evicted tenants. The number to be supported has certainly increased of late, while the funds, with the closest economy of administration, have hardly met the expenditure. Should this continue, it is said, a general election, which the government at any favorable moment may precipitate, would find the home-rule party disabled in advance of the

Quick Transit of Mails. LONDON, Oct. 22. The remarkably quick transit of the mails, which arrived on the steamer City of New York yesterday from Queenstown, to Dublin and London was infinenced by the good record recently made in transporting mails from Southampton. Several suggestions have lately been made that better time could be made from some other port than Queenstown, and the Irish railways have at last awakened to their danger of losing this profitable business through their indifference to the public demands for more expeditions service. The importance of hurrying the mails through having dawned upon the railway officials they have announced their purpose to continue the good work they inaugurated yesterday, and even further improvements in the transportation facilities are not without the bounds of hope. Gambiers Start a False Rumor. LONDON, Oct. 22.-The city was startled to-day by a rumor that the Duke of Devonshire had died suddenly, and pending veri fication or refutation of the rumor political and other circles were greatly excited. The succession of the Marquis of Hartington to his father's title and seat in the House of Lords, with the attendant political probabilities, was eagerly discussed, and hundreds of auxious inquirers besieged the Duke's residence in Picadilly. The falsity of the rumor having been established an inquiry as to its origin disclosed the fact that it had been started by book-makers for the purpose of scratching Lord Harting-ton's horse Marion, which they had backed heavily. The attempt, however, was not successful. Extending the Law of Lese-Majeste. LONDON, Oct. 22 .- The prosecution of the editor of the Gotha Tagblatt, on the charge of insulting a member of the reigning house of Coburg-Gotha, arouses considerable interest in Germany, as Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who is alleged to have been insulted, is only a cousin of the sovereign of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and if the law of lese-majeste would apply in his case it would apply to scores of princes and princesses throughout Europe, connected with the Coburg family who are related. more or less, to the reigning houses of Germany, England, Russia, and several other states, and also to the ex-Emperor of Brazil

In some way a copy of the petition became posted as a proclamation, and upon this were based the false accusations made against the Germans. The British consul at Zanzibar, though knowing the persons responsible for the charges, declined to disclose their names.

How Boulanger Spent His Money. Paris, Oct. 23.—The Dix Neuvoeme Siecle publishes Boulanger's account of his personal expenses. After declaring that he lost the whole of his savings after paying his father's debts, besides 100,000 francs for his book, "The Invasion of Germany," he says he sacrificed the retiring pension and an offer of 1,000,000 francs for a lecture tour in America. He denies that he applied to the Duchess d'Uzes or Baron Mackau for money, but he is vague as to the origin of his resources. He challenges his accusers to give an account of how they secured their riches and to show that they have made such sacrifices as he has made.

Salvador and Gautemala at Peace. CHICAGO, Oct. 22,-M. Casin, of Salvador one of the largest exporters of Central America, arrived here yesterday en route to Europe. Banquet to Cardinal Gibbons.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22 .- As a part of the celebration of the centenary of the birth of Father Mathew, a banquet was given to-night in honor of Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ryan, by the Father Mathew Club, of Philadelphia. The principal speech of the evening was made by Archbishop Ireland, who responded to the toast "The Church and State." The Cardinal left the banquet hall early in the evening, and as he was retiring, he turned to the assemblage and said: "I have attended many noted feasts, and have sat with many distinguished men, but I have never enjoyed a festivity so much as this." Addressing the club, he said: "You are the jewels of religion, the gems of the church. the gospel and practice." He then gave his benediction to those present and the temperance movement, and retired.

Evidence Against Hennessy's Assassins. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.-Joseph Will iams, a colored youth, relates a story which is likely to prove an important link in the Hennessy case. He is well acquainted with Casparo Marchesi, the fourteen-year-old son of one of the men charged with complicity in murdering Hennessy. The Italian boy was arrested with his father. but was released, as no one identified him. Williams met the boy afterward and asked him how he got out of jail. Marchesi re-plied that he had turned State's evidence against his father; that the latter made him stand on Girod street and watch for the chief; told him to whistle when Hennessy approach, and then run to the Poydras market. The whistle was the signal for his father and the others to come out of the shanty on Girod street. He did as told the night of the murder, and his father and another Italian joined him at the market shortly afterward, where they

Story of a Circumstance Concerning the Assassin of President Lincoln.

Cincinnati Special Charles F. Lincoln has been for a long time janitor of the Twenty-second District School. He is popularly described as a "queer duck," though he is well-liked by all who know him. He was born in North Carolina and has just secured a government appointment at Washington. During the war Lincoln, who was a sailor almost from childhood, was quartermaster on the tug Saugus. After the fight at Fort Fisher the Monitor was compelled to start to Washington for repairs. Things were in up the James and fought with that gun until Richmond fell. In Lincoln's own words his story is told: "April 14, 1865, there was a great commo-tion in the yard at Washington, where we were at anchor. In a moment President Lincoln came on board. I was ordered to do something. When he heard my name called, he said: 'Is your name Lincoln?'

"'Yes,' said I; 'and is your name Lincoln,

We lay there at the wharf until toward the last of the month, when one night a closed carriage drove up and Payne, one of the assassins, came aboard. He appeared to be about nineteen years of age, very tall, with dark hair, closely cropped, and blood all over his clothes. "Next night a steamer came up alongside us with about twenty-five members of the Second New York Light Cavalry on board. We prepared to receive their prisoners. The deck of the steamer was about six inches higher than the deck of the Monitor, which was painted the color of the water. The first prisoner, instead of stepping on our deck, stepped plump into the water. His hands were tied behind him and he went down like a stone. I took a lantern, and holding it between the vessels, caught him by the back of his neck as he came up and asked, 'What are you doing?' 'That's Herrold,' said someone. 'Who's Herrold?' I asked. 'Is he the fellow that writes for the New York Herald?' I didn't know who Herrold was, and the soldiers laughed at the combination. Herrold was a handsome slender fellow of nineteen. Next a plank was placed across the chasm, and Booth's body was slid across.

"I remember well how he looked. His nose was bruised and his hair was pushed back above his forehead. His mustache was heavy and very black, and there was a three days' growth of beard on his face. One arm was naked, and his left leg was wrapped in heavy brown paper.' His clothing was carefully searched for money and papers. Even the paper was taken off his leg, which had turned black. He had on one boot and one shoe. The shoe was left lying on the deck, and some days later sold for $5. We held the lanterns, and the doctor cut off his head to trace the bullet through his neck. The body was next cut open lengthwise. The organs were all removed and examined, and all put back ex-cept the heart, which was of abnormal size. The heart is on exhibition at Washington now. The body with the head was wrapped in a blanket and sent away in a boat. That was the last I saw of it. The sailors who took it ashore told me they landed it at the old penitentiary, but did not see what was done with it."

The Great Southern Scarecrow. Memphis Avalanche.

Nevertheless it is to be regretted that any section of the Union is solid, or rather that there is any necessity that it should be so. It is essential to the welfare of the South, as long as the negro is a voter, that the South should continue to be solid That question out of the way there would be a general breaking up of the sectional

Mr. Sage Gives Cornell $200,000. Murdered by His Son.

Croswell, Mich., Oct. 22.—Yesterday morning the body of William Swader, of Adam's Corners, was found in his barn-yard with his head full of shot, the skull crushed and other terrible marks of violence. The most conclusive evidence points to his son as the perpetrator, and he was arrested yes—

Unskilled Doctors for Animals.

National Stockman. There are in the country many persons who "practice medicine" on our dumb animals in a way that if it were applied to the human family would soon be stopped by rigid laws. A great many who do not know enough or do not care to take the responsibility of doctoring humanity drop into the ranks of veterinaries, and the results of their carelessness and ignorance are seen wherever they locate. And this is likely one reason why so many hesitate to patronize veterinary practitioners. The amount of damage that has been and is being done by incompetent men of this enormous, and strict laws should be enforced in every State to keep quacks and ignorant men from "practicing" on valuable stock. There are, however, many intelligent and competent veterinarians, and the skill of such should be more generally taken advantage of than is the case at present. A good veterinarian is a useful man, but any other kind is a double injury -to his patrons and to the profession.

Democratic Figuring.

San Francisco Chronicle. The Democratic press figures that the Mc-Kinley bill has raised the average of tariff charges. The editors arrive at this curious conclusion by confining themelves strictly to those articles upon which the duty is retained by the bill, and entirely ignoring the 138 reductions and the forty new classes put on the free list. By the same method of calculation, if the duty were removed from every article but one and that remained at 65 per cent., the Democrats could still figure out increased taxation.

The Ohio Democracy. The information from Lima is to the effect that Calvin Brice, who recently returned from New York, is running a bureau in the interest of his own congressional candidates, with a special clerk and "edu-cational distributor" for each district in which he has personal candidates. Mr. Brice appears to be the Democratic party

A Discrepancy Somewhere.

Detroit Tribune. Congressman Bynum, of Indiana, seems to be pretty well known in his own State. But to know him is not to love him, according to the published reports. The Hoosier papers are quoting Bynum vs. Bynum very freely, and the reader must necessarily come to the conclusion that both of them can't be telling the truth.

Dangerous to the Democracy.

Boston Journal. The Bennett school law in Wisconsin has increased the school attendance 20,000 in a single year. It is no wonder that the Wisconsin Democracy regards the law as a dangerous innovation. Only give it time enough and at that rate it would effectually eliminate the Democratic party from Wisconsin politics.

Nothing but Wind and Water.

"It is not a lack of stone that is delaying the Grant monument," says the Indianapo-Journal; "it is lack of rocks." And this lack of rocks is very naturally due to lack of sand.
